MYKOLAS ROMERIS
UNIVERSITY

LITHUANIA

Lithuania is a green and flat land in the north of Europe, ashore the Baltic Sea. It is one of three Baltic countries, and shares borders with Latvia, Belarus, Poland and Russia (Kaliningrad). The country is full of preserved natural landscapes, woods, lakes and rivers, and has a unique sea side, with Curonian spit, a sandy peninsula, isolating the Curonian sea from the Baltic sea.

Lithuania, an active member of the European Union and North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is the only Baltic country with nearly eight hundred years of statehood tradition, while its name was first mentioned more than one thousand years ago, in 1009. Wedged at the dividing line of Western and Eastern civilizations, in 1918 the Republic of Lithuania country declared its Independence and in 1990 restored it by separating from the Soviet Union.

VILNIUS

Vilnius, the capital city of Lithuania, received the status of capital city in 1323. It is the largest city and the biggest economical and political centre of Lithuania. The population of the capital city is about 0.5 million. Vilnius occupies an area of 397 square kilometers, of which only one fifth is densely urban and the remaining territory is a green belt and water. For this reason, Vilnius is often referred to as one of the 'greenest' capital cities in Europe. Vilnius is also the biggest administrative centre of Lithuania. It is a home to the most important governmental, political, economic, educational, social and political institutions of the country.

The historical centre of Vilnius, the Old Town, is the most valuable historical and cultural heritage of the city. The Old Town buildings date back to different centuries. Due to its unique historical and architectural features, Vilnius old town is included in the UNESCO World Heritage List since 1994.

HIGHER EDUCATION SYSTEM

Lithuania has a modern, highly developed education system. Lithuania's higher education successfully blends the values of Western culture with the unique Baltic traditions and mentality.

The system is focused on innovation, creativity and quality providing students with necessary competencies and skills for today's and tomorrow's fast changing academic and business world. The country has a binary higher education system: universities and colleges. There are three cycles of studies: Bachelor's, Master's, and (non-university higher education institutions) Doctorate. Students can study on full-time and part-time basis.
