

HIGH QUALITY IN STUDY, RESEARCH AND INTERNATIONALITY

Renowned external agencies, rankings and institutions confirm our high requirements and honour our university and study programmes with the following awards and seals:

Our university is once again among the leading group in many categories in the CHE university ranking (CHE-Hochschulranking) by ZEIT. According to our students the study support, the guidance by teaching staff, the ease of study and the international orientation are excellent. Further advantages of SRH Hochschule Berlin include the time to complete a degree and the career support before and during job entry.

We are the first and only private university of applied sciences in Berlin that has been reaccredited by the German Council of Science and Humanities (Wissenschaftsrat) for the maximum period of 10 years (2015 – 2025). Awarding the accreditation, the Scientific Advisory Council honours the international orientation, the teaching quality and the research achievements. The number and quality of our international partners and the high study standards have also been praised by the Council.

The European accreditation agency FIBAA (Foundation for International Business Administration Accreditation) has accredited all our study programmes. The FIBAA Seal verifies the favourable quality development and the high subject-specific quality of our study programmes. The agency has also emphasised the intercultural and interdisciplinary scope of the programmes, the quality of services and the excellent career prospects upon graduation.

Our Master's programme "International Management" has received the FIBAA Premium Seal which is awarded to outstanding programmes that exceed FIBAA's quality requirements. The highlights of the programme include the international body of students, the global focus of the programme, the practical relevance and the student support services. Thus, "International Management" is among the TOP 10 accredited Master's programmes in Germany.
