Living in Cork

A vibrant, cosmopolitan city. Surrounded by stunning landscape.

Cork is Ireland’s second largest city and is located near the south coast of Ireland. It offers students all the advantages of a bustling, vibrant and cosmopolitan city, with parks, galleries, shops, restaurants, theatres and historical buildings in abundance. Simultaneously it possesses a small-town familiarity and students can navigate the city on foot or by bicycle with ease. If you step away from the city, County Cork provides some of the most stunning coastlines and walks in Europe, and all right at your doorstep as a student of UCC.

Cork also provides excellent career opportunities once your study is complete. Apple’s EMEA HQ is based in the city, with other leaders in industry such as Pfizer, BNY Mellon and Dell EMC based there. There’s no limit to the post-education opportunities provided to UCC students in Cork.

Living in the heart of Cork

UCC is an integral part of the city of Cork, and students play an important role in the community at large. A wide range of accommodation options are available, from campus accommodation to private houses or apartments. Either way, you will have the city and Cork County on your doorstep. For more information, please see: <https://www.ucc.ie/en/international/studentinfohub/beforeyouarrive/accommodation/>

Studying at University College Cork

Lighting the fire of education

For students who want to embrace everything university life has to offer, University College Cork (UCC) is the right choice. University College Cork — a world-class university was founded in 1845 and combines a rich tradition of teaching, research and scholarship.

UCC is unrivalled in the quality of academic programmes, the beauty of its campus and its vibrant student life. Our location in picturesque Cork, home to the friendliest of Irish people, means that a warm welcome awaits every student. And that’s not all – Cork has been named a UNESCO Learning City, one of only twelve cities in the world to hold this title. Defined by UNESCO as ‘a city which effectively mobilizes its resources across all sectors to maximise the opportunities for lifelong learning for all its citizens’, Cork and UCC are symmetrical in our ambitions for our students.’

UCC degrees, conferred by the National University of Ireland, are internationally recognised and some 21,000 students take its undergraduate and postgraduate programmes. We’re looking for students with strong academic records, independent thinkers, individuals that are determined to impact the world in a positive way. We’d like young minds that are ready to engage with the challenges that our world possesses and find innovative ways to tackle them. There’s a whole world out there for you to discover and make your mark on – let it begin with UCC.

What will you study?

At UCC, we want to encourage our students to think independently, to aim higher, and to become change makers. We structure our programmes to help encourage your ambitions - be it driving a green economy, encouraging health and wellbeing, understanding global citizenship or pursuing innovation.

UCC is organised into four colleges: College of Arts, Celtic Studies and Social Sciences, College of Business and Law, College of Science, Engineering and Food Science and the College of Medicine and Health. Each of these colleges offers a wide variety of undergraduate programmes which encourage our central themes, and spark independent thinking.

Many programmes have paid work placements built into the degree or periods of study abroad which is hugely beneficial to students when they are looking for employment post-university. For students taking a language, their proficiency is strongly improved with a study abroad option in a country of their chosen language.
